St Johns Hospice and Mustard Seed Ministries Receive Supplies

Atlanta, Georgia - The Antigua and Barbuda Association of Georgia (ABAG), donated supplies to support the needs of two local non-governmental Groups in Antigua. The St Johns Hospice and the Mustard Seed Ministries were recipients of personal care and support supplies secured with the proceeds of fundraising activities held in Atlanta, GA.

Ms Cathy Gilkes of the St Johns Hospice profusely thanked the organization for recognizing the need at the hospice and rallying to support the hospice.

President, Uldeen Lee, stated ABAG was happy to donate to the groups since it believes both groups are providing much needed services in the country. ABAG is also confident the deserving groups will put the supplies to good use.

ABAG has donated to various organizations in Antigua and Barbuda for several years. In 2016 a donation of personal care and kitchen supplies was made to The CARE Project. Previously donation beneficiaries included: The Boys Training School, Parham School, New Winthropes School, Cobbs Cross School, Adele School, Villa School, the Senior Citizens Center, the Sickle Cell Association and Mount St John. ABAG provides an avenue for members to support areas of need in Antigua and Barbuda. The Association plans to continue its support to Antiguan and Barbudan groups in need in the years ahead.
